GARRISON IS CHEERFUL

RUSSIANS AT PORT ARTHUR FULL OF CONFIDENCE.

Report of the Only Woman Who Has Run the Blockade—Apparent Aim of the Japanese.

Mrs. Anna Kravtchenko, the English wife of a Russian army officer, who arrived at Chefoo the night of September 17 with Lieutenant Prince Radzivil, from Port Arthur, is the first woman to run the blockade from the Russian stronghold since the Japanese increased their vigilance to prevent egress from the port. Her trip was rendered extremely perilous because she came out with the prince and his companion, Lieutenant Christoff, who carried messages from Lieutenant General Stoessel, the commander at Port Arthur, to General Kuropatkin. Both these officers were disguised, and had they been captured by the Japanese they certainly would have been executed.

She gave the following account of her trip:

"We left Port Arthur at 8 o'clock on the night of September 15. There was a good wind and the moon was bright. We were successful in avoiding the danger of the first Japanese blockading line. We came up to the second line when the moon was under a cloud. Searchlights were flashing on all sides, but our junk was not discovered. "We suddenly discovered ourselves close to another junk with a Japanese crew on board. They presumably were pirates, and we outlasted them and drew away. At 6 o'clock the next morning we saw a steamer coming from the harbor. It had the appearance of a cruiser and I was terribly frightened. When we saw the cruiser Prince Radzivil and Lieutenant Christoff went below. I stretched out on the deck and covered myself with dirty blankets. Chinese were lying at my feet and at my sides, and for nearly an hour, although nearly asphyxiated, I kept my position. I never uttered a more thankful prayer than when I was informed that the steamer had seen a Red Cross vessel and that her captain had no intention of overhauling us.

Work in the Hospitals.

"Wonderful things are being done by the staffs of the different hospitals at Port Arthur, who are assisted by ladies. There are thirty nurses for each thousand patients. The ladies devote most of their time to the making of clothes for the soldiers. The laundry work is done by the poor women and the wives of the enlisted men. The sick and wounded are thus kept supplied with clean clothing. The laundry work has to be done in dreadful heat.

"There are no contagious diseases at Port Arthur, but many deaths are resulting from the bites of a large red-headed fly, which feeds on the decomposing corpses scattered over the battlefield. A doctor who was bitten on the thumb by one of these flies instantly removed the member. He then had his arm amputated, but not before the poison had reached his heart. The result was a fatal fever.

"Every day in the week the band plays at one of the hospitals. "The wounded men recover quickly from the wounds inflicted by Maxim projectiles and by the bullets of the Osaka rifle, but the wounds resulting from explosive bullets are awful and recovery is impossible.

Little Loss of Life.

"The old town of Port Arthur is almost entirely wrecked. The streets are filled with bodies made by exploding shells. The loss of life in Port Arthur from the bombardments has been remarkably small. Once I counted fifty-seven Japanese shells fired at a Russian battery, not one of which reached its mark.

"The Russian garrison is cheerful. It would be impossible to imagine a braver or finer set of men. They return from their day's duty in the trenches with songs on their lips. Although many places in the ranks are vacant, all the men have unlimited confidence in their power to hold the fortresses against the enemy.

"I assure you," Mrs. Kravtchenko said to the correspondent, "that I believe Port Arthur will stand against the Japanese. I don't think the stronghold will fall.

Aim of the Japanese.

"According to the London Morning Post's Japanese informant, two of "Kuropatkin's forts," which the Japanese are said to have occupied in the vicinity of Shushiyang, are Nantail and Changkiatun, and their value to the besiegers consists in the former being close to the Antsuanam forts and the latter to the Japanese fortifications. The loss of life in Port Arthur from the bombardments has been remarkably small. Once I counted fifty-seven Japanese shells fired at a Russian battery, not one of which reached its mark.

"The Telegraph's Chefoo correspondent says that Japanese military circles had thought that the fall of Port Arthur would be coincident with the mikado's birthday (November 3), but that they admit it has been postponed until spring.

Winter Quarters at Dalny.

"It is significant," the correspondent adds, "that winter quarters are being prepared at Dalny. When Niuchwang is frozen up Dalny will be the main base of the whole operations.

"It is reliably stated that General Nogai, in command of the Japanese forces at Port Arthur, is preparing a new scheme of attack. Involving an assault, not upon the whole line, but upon the commanding positions. It being essential to speedily secure more forts in order to enable the Japanese to hold their present advantage.

"Foreign correspondents and attaches are under strict supervision and are not allowed to witness important movements. A Russian merchant was the name of a Chinese who escaped from Port Arthur and was captured by the Japanese. Afterward he was liberated and was told by the Japanese that because a heavy bombardment was imminent.

"From the numerous conflicting statements in the newspaper dispatches, it is impossible to get an idea of Port Arthur's resources in ammunition and food. It is alleged that foreign agents are purposely given supplies of good clothes and food in order to weaken the outside world.

"Chinese who left Port Arthur last Monday are reported as saying at Shanghai that owing to the incessant bombardment the Russian fleet is determined to break out this week and endeavor to reach Tientsin, a German port on the Shanghai peninsula.

SARATOGA NOMINEES

THE CANDIDATES FOR GOVERNOR AND LIEUT. GOVERNOR.

Enthusiastic Reception to Justice Herrick at Albany—Parker's Congratulations—Harrison's Age.

A dispatch from New York last night says: Judge Daniel Cady Herrick, the nominee of New York democrats for governor, is a member of the state court of appeals, over which Judge Parker until recently presided.

Herrick in Esperance, Schoharie county, N. Y., in 1848, his father was a merchant in Albany and late in life was the president of a small bank. When he died he left his son about $75,000. Young Herrick was educated in Albany Classical Institute and Albany Law School. In 1880 he was elected district attorney of Albany. At that time Daniel Manning was the democratic leader of Albany and Mr. Herrick became his chief lieutenant.

When Mr. Cleveland was elected President in 1884 and took Mr. Manning to Washington as Secretary of the Treasury, David B. Hill became governor and Mr. Herrick succeeded as the democratic leader of Albany. In differences that took place Mr. Herrick opposed Mr. Hill, and with much success.

Appointed to Supreme Bench.

In 1890 Mr. Herrick was appointed to the supreme bench, and in 1891 he received the election to the position which he now holds. He resigned from the state committee when he went on the bench, and never since has he served on any committee or been a delegate to any convention.

As a judge he has been little criticized.

He has been said by lawyers of both parties to be fair, impartial and able. On the bench he has been equally fair. He held the state board of canvassers for canvassing the returns of Dutchess county when Hill tried to get the senatorship through Maynard.

A dispatch from Albany, N. Y., last night says: Justice D. Cady Herrick, the newly nominated candidate of the democratic party for governor, opened his campaign this evening with a brief speech, delivered at a demonstration made in his honor by the Albany Democratic Club on its return from Saratoga. Representative Francis Burton Harrison, candidate for lieutenant governor, who was calling on Judge Herrick at the time, also made a few remarks.

David B. Hill, who had accompanied the club to the Herrick residence, also made a brief speech.

Judge Parker authorized the publication of a telegram of congratulation, which he sent to the nominee, as follows: "Accept my hearty congratulations. The action of the convention assures the party a good candidate and the people a good governor."

Nominee Harrison Not 31 Years Old.

A dispatch from Baltimore says: Representative Francis Burton Harrison, who received the nomination for lieutenant governor at the democratic state convention at Saratoga, is one of the youngest men to be named for such a high state office. He will be thirty-one years old in December.

Mr. Harrison was born in New York City in 1873. In 1895 he was graduated from Yale, and two years later he received the degree of bachelor of laws from the New York Law School. He took an active interest in the democratic affairs of his district.

Last year he received the democratic nomination for Congress in the thirteenth New York district and was elected. Mr. Harrison is a member of an interesting family. His father was Burton N. Harrison, who served as secretary to
